Kenyon $15 Men's Suits
When you seek economy, ask your merchant to show you this $15 Suit. Compare it with one that costs $25, and see wherein lies the difference. It does not lie in the wearing qualities; surely not in the style and fit. The great difference is one of price, caused by more than one reason—made in the largest factories of their kind in the world.

BESIDE HIMSELF

Any man must be beside himself who tries to get on in the world without knowing what the world is doing.

This newspaper is published for people who want to know. HOW ABOUT YOU? ARE YOU A SUBSCRIBER?

Pale-Faced Women

You ladies, who have pale faces, sallow complexions, dark circles under eyes, drawn features and tired, worn-out expressions, you need a tonic.
The tonic you need is Cardui, the woman's tonic.
It is the best tonic for women, because its ingredients are specifically adapted for women's needs. They act on the womanly organs and help to give needed strength and vitality to the worn-out womanly frame.
Cardui is a vegetable medicine. It contains no minerals, no iron, no potassium, no lime, no glycerin, no dangerous, or habit-forming drugs of any kind.
It is perfectly harmless and safe, for young and old to use.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"After my doctor had done all he said he could for me," writes Mrs. Wm. Hilliard, of Mountainburg, Ark., "I took Cardui, on the advice of a friend, and it helped me so much. Before taking Cardui, I had suffered from female troubles for five years, but since taking it, I am in good health. I think there is some of the best advice in your book that I ever saw." Your druggist sells Cardui. Try it.

GOING TO A WEDDING

"Did you have a good time?" asked the bookkeeper.

The young woman stenographer dropped her heavy suitcase. Having assured herself that the manager had not yet reached the office that morning, she turned upon the bookkeeper a severe countenance.

"You are the most tactless man I know," she declared. "Did you ever hear of any one having a good time at anybody's wedding?"

The bookkeeper shook his head. "That's the point of my subtle joke," he said.

"Well, it sounded to me like an ordinary foolish question. I am a little peevish, I think, for I am trying to count up how much the wedding cost me."

"I thought you liked to spend money."

"I do, when I have some chance of getting a fair return for it. But what pleasure do I get out of this? Not any."

"First," went on the stenographer, bitterly. "I had to forfeit a day's salary for a substitute stenographer; then, in order to catch the six o'clock train I had to hire a taxicab. Next I had to say good-bye to six perfectly good dollars for my railroad ticket."

"When I reached the town my thirteen-year-old nephew pushed me into a cab as if I were a bag of meal. Then he disappeared bashfully into the darkness, leaving me alone in the cab with a nice-looking young man who was going to the same place. All the romances foisted on the girl and the man meeting on the way to the house party flashed through my mind and I began to think that perhaps the wedding wouldn't be such a bore, after all."

"I didn't know before that you were so dependent on a mere man for your happiness," said the bookkeeper. "You are always bragging about the good times at your club."

"A girls' club is a jolly affair in itself," explained the stenographer, "but a church sociable or a wedding needs some foreign element—for example, an interesting man—to make it endurable."

"And this particular man?"

"His name was Smith. His wife and his small son were waiting for him at the house."

"Love's young dream blasted!" murmured the bookkeeper.

"I had one stroke of luck," said the stenographer. "The house was so full of relatives that I had to go to a neighbor's to sleep. I thought how lovely it was that I would not have to get up at seven o'clock in order to get to the office on time. They called me at six o'clock."

"After breakfast I helped make all the beds and then I sneaked off into one corner of the library and began to read a book. Unfortunately, my brother-in-law saw me and my reposed attitude seemed to irritate him, for he asked me to get up and dust a picture frame."

"It was selfish of you to shirk—"

"Young man, don't you know that one of the greatest lessons in life is to learn one's own responsibility and let other people's alone? The caterers were there to cater; the decorators were there to decorate; the bride and the bridesmaids were in the hands of the hairdresser. I think it was nice of me not to go rushing around yelling 'Isn't there something I can do?'"

"I got even with my brother-in-law, however. All of his personal property that was downstairs I carried up, and anything I found of his upstairs I took downstairs. They will have to clean house again before he finds his things."

"Of course we had a stand-up lunch in the butler's pantry—and my suit will have to go to the cleaner's."

"Two hours later the wedding march began. Then the procession came in, everybody counting four on each foot and all wishing they were well out of the whole business. Then during the ceremony there were some unostentatious tears shed. The man who wrote 'Merrily the Wedding Bells' certainly had a wonderful imagination. Next came the refreshments and the showering of rice."

"Well, this morning I crawled out at 4:30 and caught the train back to Chicago."

"But you had a visit with your relatives."

"I didn't. Besides, the trip cost me ten dollars, without counting the present."

"You could have gone to a lot of matinees for that."

The stenographer nodded. "Without anybody's being tired out or sick from overwork," she said. "I know one thing. If ever I get married I'll put a standing advertisement of it in the newspaper. That will do away with addressing and stamping invitations. Then we will walk over to the nearest minister's."

"Hush!" warned the bookkeeper. "Get busy! Here comes the boss."

A Good Reason.

"I want to thank you," said the orator, "for the manner in which you gave attention to my remarks. Your attitude was gratifying different from the others."

"Yes," replied the auditor; "but I don't want any credit that is not due me. I have had insomnia for weeks."

Mosquitoes in Alaska.

In spite of the cold, mosquitoes flourish and are an intolerable nuisance in Alaska.
